THE OLEO DISCUSSION

The Restriction Uncle Sam Provides to Protect the Public.

IS THE LAW ENFORCED?

The Oleomargarine Sellers Think an Injustice Has Been Done Them. Something More About Antideluvian Animals.

THE VIRGINIAN article yesterday on Oleomargarine, was prepared with the full knowledge that it could in no manner affect the determination of the action brought in the courts to test the constitutionality of the Virginia statute. Through the influence of the dairy men of the country, Congress enacted stringent laws regulating the sale of the various substitutes for butter.

The action of Congress was followed by that of the Legislature, and both were intended to protect the producers and consumers of dairy products. The United States statutes restricted the sale, the Virginia law prohibited its use, the only difference being that one went a bowshot farther than the other. The question is of

at present because being agitated, and THE VIRGINIAN finds a condition of affairs which circumstantially justifies the belief that the United States laws, as well as the State laws, have been violated. The act of August 2d, 1886, defines butter as follows: "The word shall be understood to mean the food product known as butter and which is made exclusively from milk or cream, or both, or without common salt and with or without additional coloring matter. The law prescribes that the following substances and compounds shall be known and designated

AS OLEOMARGARINE when made in imitation or semblance of butter, or when so made, calculated or intended to be sold as butter, namely: Oleo, oleomargarine oil, buttermilk, lardine, suine and neutral; all mixtures and compounds of oleomargarine, oleo, oleomargarine oil, buttermilk, lardine, suine and neutral; all lard extracts and tallow extracts, all mixtures and compounds of tallow, beef fat, suet, lard, lard oil, vegetable oil, annatto and other coloring matter, intestinal fat and oilfat.

SPECIAL TAX.

The United States imposes a license tax upon the business, as follows: Manufacturers shall pay $600; wholesale dealers shall pay $180, and for selling goods without tax a fine of not less than $500 is imposed; and every person who sells or offers for sale in original packages shall be deemed a whole sale dealer. Retail dealers shall pay a special tax of $18. Every person who shall sell in less quantities than ten pounds shall be regarded as a retail dealer, who must sell only from original packages in quantities not exceeding ten pounds, and shall pack the oleomargarine sold by them in suitable wooden or paper packages, which shall be marked and branded as the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe, and for selling retail without a license a fine of not less than $50 is imposed. Every person

WHO KNOWLEDGE SELLS or offers for sale, or delivers or offers to deliver any oleomargarine in any other form than in wooden or paper packages as above described, or who packs in any package any oleomargarine in any manner contrary to law, or who falsely brands any package or affixes a stamp on any package denoting a less amount of tax than that required by law, shall be fined for each offence not more than $1,000 and be imprisoned not more than two years. Every person intending to engage in the business of retailing oleomargarine must register with the Collector of Internal Revenue. No person shall carry on the business of retail dealer until he has paid the special tax. Special tax stamps are not transferable from one dealer to another.

A person carrying on the business of retail dealer at more than one stand or location. Retail dealers must keep their special tax stamps conspicuously posted in those places of business. For neglect to do this the law imposes a penalty to the amount of the special tax, and the cost of prosecution. Double this amount is imposed for willful neglect or refusal to conspicuously post the stamp.

Retailers must not take oleomargarine from original stamped packages and put it up in packages in advance of sale.

Retailers packages must have the name and address of the dealer printed or branded thereon, likewise the words pound and oleomargarine in letters not less than one quarter of an inch square and the quantity written, printed or branded thereon in figures of the same size, thus.

JOHN SMITH,
110 Lovett avenue,
Norfolk, Va.
3 pound Oleomargarine.

These words and figures must be LEGIBLY PRINTED or branded on the outside of the package and no other word or business card shall be placed thereon in such a manner as to conceal the fact or divert attention therefrom that the contents of the package is oleomargarine. Indistinct, illegible or concealed marks and brands are prohibited. The color of the ink in which the words are printed must be in strong contrast with the wood or paper forming the package.

It is the duty of the dealer in butter to ascertain the true character of the article which they sell or offer for sale and for failure a penalty is imposed. It will be seen that the United States has taken every precaution that the consumer may know the character of the goods he buys. It is not believed that this law is lived up to. There is an impression that many a package of oleomargarine is given to the customer who asks for butter, and no pains taken to observe the regulations in stamping packages delivered to the buyer for home consumption.

As stated in THE VIRGINIAN yesterday the State of Virginia has prohibited the sale, and there is nothing to say except that "it can be did."

Armour's agent in Norfolk called at THE VIRGINIAN office yesterday and complained that the description of oleo, etc., was an injustice to their firm and invited a representative of the paper to visit their place on Water street, to inspect their goods. The invitation was accepted and the NICE LITTLE PADS seen were certainly pretty to look upon.

He claimed that his firm handled nothing but the best material. The newspaper man reminded him that he was writing of the inferior grades, more particularly where the greatest number of anti-deluvian animals are seen.

The oleomargarine advocates contend that the spurious is just as good as the genuine. It is

invented by a chemist named Mege Mourioux on an order from the French Government to provide a cheap substitute for butter and that his discovery in this line have been accepted by food experts the world over as eminently satisfactory and of great value. It is contended that he clearly demonstrated that the formation of butter contained in milk was due to the absorption of fat contained in the animal tissues and that the oil pressed of beehives is exactly the same oil as that found in the natural butter, that the product is known as oleo; that it is sweet to the taste, of a yellowish color, and is one of the chief components of butterine. The friends of the product claim that the making is not a secret, mysterious business, but is witnessed daily by hundreds of visitors. The agent of Armour & Co., has sent a number of their samples to THE VIRGINIAN for inspection, and contends that they live up to the letter of the law, and that their goods is superior to the average country butter.

Are You Deaf?

Don't you want to hear? The Auraphone will help you if you do. It is a recent scientific invention to assist the hearing of any one not born deaf. When in the ear is invisible, and does not cause the slightest discomfort. It is to the ear what glasses are to the eye, an ear spectacle. An experienced artist will be at the new Atlantic Hotel, Norfolk, on Thursday, February 7, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., where they can be tested free of charge. Attention is called to the advertisement stating that the New York Male Quartet, assisted by Miss Marion Short, will give a special concert at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, February 5th. HIS FATHER MISSED HIM.

The Lost Son Almost Found Again Disappears.

STILL ELUDING HIS FATHER.

And for no Other Reason Than His Failure to Pass a College Examination. A Story of Disappointed Ambition and Misunderstanding.

A. E. Jones, a young man of good family, aged about 19 years, came to this city some time ago and, although the son of a wealthy New Yorker, the young man went out in search of work.

After a long and discouraging quest, he finally made up his mind to apply to the "Business Exchange" for work, and has since held a position with a Main street firm. His employers state that the young man was sober, industrious, well educated and thoroughly trustworthy.

Little by little the story of how he came to leave home leaked out. It was a tale of wounded pride and a disappointed youthful ambition.

He had attended a Northern college, studied hard, but failed to graduate.

His disappointment and chagrin was so keen that he left college and without returning home, went to Washington, D. C., where he obtained employment, when he came to Norfolk.

Last week his father learned that his son was in this city and he hastened here full of the hope of again seeing him.

Arrived in Norfolk, Mr. Jones sought the assistance of the detectives who located his son and the happy father hastening to meet him, arrived only five minutes after the young man had gone to his dinner. He did not return throughout the evening and the father is harassed with fears that his boy is trying to elude him.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A TEXAS STEER."—Hoyt's "A Texas Steer," will delight the people at the Academy on Monday and Tuesday evenings next.

"MARIE WAINWRIGHT."—Marie Wainwright will be at the Academy on the 7th to the 9th, opening in "The Daughters of Eve."

ROBERT DOWLING.—Robert Dowling, America's foremost tragic actor, who will be seen at the Academy of Music this afternoon and evening, has been before the public in legitimate drama for many years. The death of Lawrence Barrett and Edwin Booth has practically left this artistic and lofty form of stage performances to this richly endowed and educated and conscientious performer. Mr. Dowling will appear this afternoon in a double comedy, which will include "David Garrick and French Marriage," closing his engagement in the evening with a grand production of "The Gladiator," a play with which Mr. Dowling's art is most indubitably associated in the mind of the average play-goer. He is assisted by a splendid company, including beautiful and talented Eugene Blair.

Reserved seats at matinee 75 cents.

"A GILDED FOOL."—The audience which assembled at the Academy of Music last evening to see Nat Goodwin in "The Gilded Fool" was not only large, but it was fashionable and altogether critical. Mr. Goodwin is a great actor, and the pleasure which he gave his auditors last evening will linger long in the memory of those whose good fortune it was to have seen him. Mr. Goodwin should come again. The support was all that could be desired.

Arrested for Assault.

Annie Cox, colored, appeared before Justice Gregory last night and secured a warrant for the arrest of Sanford Anderson, whom she charges with striking her with his fist and threatening to shoot her with a pistol. Anderson was bailed out for $5 by Justice Ashburn.

Secretary Gregory Received His Money.

Mr. W. F. Gregory, Mayor's Secretary, Clerk of the Police Court, and Clerk to the Board of Police Commissioners, was a happy man yesterday. The city charter and the ordinances provide that his pay account must be approved by the Mayor, Police Justice and Police Board. As Capt. Bolton objected to allowing him to serve as clerk to the board it was feared by his friends that the Commissioners would refuse to certify to his pay account. There was no trouble along this line, however, and yesterday Mr. Gregory received his money. It is thought that should the Commissioners be in an agreeable frame of mind at the next meeting that the clerk will be admitted.

Death of Mrs. J. R. Waddy.

It was a great shock to her many friends, and to the many friends of her family, when it was announced that Mrs. Ella Waddy, beloved wife of Col. John R. Waddy, had died yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock, aged 47 years. Mrs. Waddy was a lady of many social and christian graces, retiring, yet most attractive in person and disposition, and greatly beloved by all who knew her. Her death was occasioned by paralysis of the brain, and though she had not been in strong health for some weeks, her illness was brief and her death a great surprise. The funeral will take place to-day at 3 p. m. from the Second Presbyterian Church, of which she was a devoted member.

Weather Forecast for February.

The following forecast of weather for this month is furnished by the United States Government:

Stormy weather north of the fortieth parallel and along the American coast north of Hatteras, Strong westerly and northwesterly gales along the trans-Atlantic steamship routes with occasional periods of strong winds and fresh gales from the northeast. Occasional northers in the Gulf of Mexico. Icebergs and field ice off Newfoundland and on the Grand Banks. Fog at intervals on the Grand Banks and near the New England coast, but not in extended areas.

Will Move Tomorrow Monday.

Mr. Ashley said to a representative of THE VIRGINIAN last night that he would not wait longer for the Market Committee to act, but would go ahead and move all the hucksters from the Arcade back of the market-house. He said the place was intended for the country wagons, and he will take down all the partitions which have been erected. He says if the committee had not interfered and had allowed him to move the hucksters before the stalls were rented he would have received much more money for them.

The Pilot's Lawyers.

The Pilot people have selected their counsel to conduct the libel suit, so THE VIRGINIAN learned last night. A reporter of THE VIRGINIAN called at the residence of one of Norfolk's leading attorneys and asked if he had not been retained. The gentleman said he had received intimation that he would be employed, but so far it was not formal. At his request his name is withheld. There will be two or more lawyers of ability associated with him in the case, when it comes to trial.

Police Court.

Justice Burroughs tried the following cases yesterday:

Wm. H. Woodhouse, assaulting Officer Jones; fined $4.75.

Charles Whitehurst, robbery of $30 from N. B. Joyner's barroom; continued till the 2d.

James Taylor, colored, assaulting James Daniels with a brick; continued to 2d.

Edward Holloway, colored, stealing a pair of gum boots from J. D. Thomas; sixty days in jail.

Vaiden in Trouble Again.

B. F. Vaiden, the colored labor agent, is again behind the bars, this time on a warrant sworn out by M. Danley, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. The methods employed by Vaiden in his labor employment bureau are such as to have caused him trouble many times before. He was bailed out in the sum of $20 by Justice Ashburn last night for his appearance before Justice Burroughs this morning.

Mr. Woodard Injured.

Mr. Ernest Woodard, of Edenton, N. C., formerly a member of the firm of Woodard & Goodridge, this city, jumped from a Norfolk and Southern moving train at Edenton yesterday and was badly hurt. No bones were broken, but Mr. Woodard received a number of painful bruises.

Judgment for Prince.

The motion for a new trial was argued before Judge Martin yesterday in the case of Prince vs. the Ocean View railroad, a damage suit growing out of certain injuries received by J. E. Prince while aboard a train at Ocean View. The motion was overruled and judgment entered for $1,000.

THREE SUITS FOR DAMAGES.

Mrs. C. P. Edwards Sues the City of Norfolk. Injuries Sustained at an Explosion of Fire-works on Christmas Eve Last.

Three suits of public interest were entered in the courts of Norfolk yesterday. As a sequel to the explosion of the fireworks at Joe Cannon's stand on Church street near Plum, on Christmas eve last, Messrs. Cole & Shultice, attorneys, have entered suit against the city for $30,000 damages in behalf of Mrs. C. P. Edwards, the sight of whose right eye was almost totally destroyed by an exploding sky rocket. Mrs. Edwards eye, it is said, may yet have to be removed. Carelessness is alleged on the part of the city in permitting the storing of explosives on the sidewalk without a protection from ignition.

It is stated that the same attorneys will also bring suit for a similar amount on behalf of Mrs. Edwards against the proprietor of the store in front of which the explosion occurred.

Rev. Sam W. Small, attorney for E. W. Johnson, entered suit in behalf of his client yesterday afternoon against the Norfolk City Railroad Company for $2,500 damages. The same attorney, acting for Mr. E. E. Fuqua, entered suit yesterday against Mr. N. B. Joyner for $2,500 damages for assault. The alleged assault was committed several days ago and Mr. Joyner was tried on the criminal charge in Police Court this week.

"LOOKING BACKWARD."

A Delightful Entertainment Last Evening.

The cultured and appreciative audience which assembled last evening in the lecture room of Granby Street M. E. Church were well repaid for their presence by the excellent rendition of a well selected programme under the auspices of the Epworth League. Mr. C. Duley was master of ceremonies, and in an unimpeachable manner he introduced each number with a few witty remarks. The first part of the programme was a collection of antique and fanciful pictures, impersonated by young ladies and gentlemen in costume, and the tableaux thus presented were pleasing and novel. The costumes were good and the characters well chosen, and each "living picture" withstood undiminished the gaze riveted upon it.

The vocal selections accompanying some of the tableaux were very good, as were the two recitations. "The Old Arm Chair" was especially well rendered, its pathos and expression being brought out by the young lady in a manner indicative of fine elocutionary talent. "Josiah's Courtship" was rendered in an unimpeachable manner.

A fancy drill in costume, "Looking Backward" was given by twelve young ladies and gentlemen.

The chorus, "Good Night, Ladies," closed an evening of rare enjoyment.

DID SHE GIVE THE MONEY?

Arrested Charged With Stealing $950.

Peter Rodgers, colored, arrested charged with stealing $950 from Frank Singleton, colored, was before the Police Justice yesterday. The testimony showed that the property stolen was $175 in cash and a bank book containing an account of $800. The defense claimed that the money was given to Rodgers by Singleton's wife before she died, a few days ago.

The plaintiff says that his wife told him she did nothing of the kind. That after the death of the woman Singleton asked Rodgers for the money and the latter, denied having it. After a full hearing of the case Justice Burroughs said that it was a suspicious affair, and continued the hearing till February 9th, Rogers was bailed for $100.
